Top (left) and bottom (right) view of the circuit board used for Physics 240 circuits. The black socket on the top is for the op-amp.

The lower bus line on the back WILL BE GROUNDED once it is put into a case. Only the power supply ground should be attached to this bus. The matching line at the upper end of the board can be attached to one of the other power supplies.